PARNELL'S PROTEST.

THE IRISH LEADER AND THE SPECIAL IN QUIRY COMMISSION.

Mr. Parnell Tries to Draw Out the Attorney General—The Judges Named for the Commission—A Buildoning Magistrate— Emperor William Starts for Steckholm—of Commons yesterday was remarkably When Smith rose to explain the de a dozen members were present, al large number of questions on the paper. They were disposed of with unusual rapidity. The them was the Speaker's answer to Healy, who asked why MacDonald, the blind member Assory, was allowed to put a question, be cause it was not one of those on the paper, while the same privilege was not accorde to others. The Speaker pointed out that Mac Donald's question was long and unimportant and it was, therefore, more respectful to the House to give notice before hand. At the same time he showed none of that almost violent indignation with which he is accus ned to meet any questions of his authority.

PARNELL'S PROTEST.

Parnell, in contending that the proposed commission should be limited to inquiring into the conduct of himself and his colleagues, into the conduct of himself and his colleagues, spoke with quite exceptional animation and evidently made a deep impression on the House. His challenge to the Attorney-General to say by a nod of the head whether he had personally compared the forged letters with the handwriting of his secretary, Campbell, before asserting in court that that gentleman wrote them, and also whether, before producing tham in court, he ascertained fro with significant silence, the Attorney-Gen eral, meanwhile, endeavoring in vain to af-tect a look of unconcern.

THE COMMISSION.

The names of the judges come as a com-plete surprise. Not one had been men-tioned in this connection. Glad-stone's qualified objection is understood to refer to Justice Day. This is somewhat puzzling, as Day is a Roman Catholic and reported to be very strongly against Orangemen in connection with the Belfast riots. None are prominent politicians. Hanner commands the greatest respect, but Day and Smith, while having the reputation of be-ing honest and fairly capable lawyers, are by no means men of the first rank. The Standard to-day threatens that if the bill is not accepte draw it, a contingency not unlikely to happen

Naw York, July 24.—Chairman Brice of the Democratic National Committee was busy yesterday. There were "enough issues" to Republicans, and the party that avoids perwill meet with the greatest respect and certainly receive the majority of the votes chall fair-minded voters. In pursuance of this policy Col. Brice will have distributed over 500,000 copies of the Mills bill this week. J. H. Austin of Warren County, Pa., a school-mate of Mr. Win. L. There was a little activity around Republican headquarters yesterday at No. SI Fifth avonue. Secretary Fansett spent the day writing letters and saw only a few callers. Assistant Secretary Frank W. Leach, who is also Chairman Quay's private secretary, came over from Washington and said the committee was sending out tariff tracts by the thousand. Col. Quay will be here Thursday and Friday and will not go back to Washington except to vote on the revenue bill if the Senate takes it up.

Col. Thos. P. Ochiltree came up from Long Branch yesterday. "There was very little actual betting at Long Branch on the election" he said. It was mostiy of the wind variety. WASHINGTON.

SENATE REPUBLICANS DISCUSS A SUBSTI-TUTE FOR THE MILLS BILL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24 .- There was il meeting of the Senate Finance Committee primal discussion of a line of action in regard to the tariff. Nothing was determined, but at the time of adjournment there was an understanding that the Republican majority of the committee would get together and see it an agreement could be reached in respect to a measure to be submitted as a substitute for the Mills bill. If successful in this, the measure is likely to be laid before a Republican caucus and when shaped to meet any conflicting view which may be developed there it will be laid before the Democrate of the Finance Committee and by them before a Democratic caucus for the consideration of a line of policy on their part. With so many elements of uncertainty no one feels like venturing a guess as to the kind of measure, if any, which may be submitted or the length of the session. But it is expected that the present week will determine pretty clearly the course of future events.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—The Republican Senators will held a caucus during the week to determine what is best to be done with the tariff this session. Senators Allison and Aldrich say the sub-bommittee of the Finance Committee is working night and day on the Republican tariff bill, and that they believe the sub-committee will have the measure ready to report to the full committee early next week, and that not more than two weeks will be required by the full committee to have the bill ready to report to the Senate. This will put the bill on the calendar about the 10th or 15th of August. Senator Manderson, when asked whether the Senate would likely get a bill out of the committee at this session, or whether it would permit the question to remain pending until December, replied: "I have no doubt that the Republicans will insist upon reporting a bill so that the country may know exactly what our party proposes to do in the way of tariff reform. Of course, it is not material that we should pass the bill at his session. I presume it will take six or eight weeks to debate the bill and has the bill and simply place it on the calendar so that Congress can adjourn by the 20th or 25th of August."

The Republican members of the committee remained in conference nearly an hour after their Democratic colleagues withdraw, and during the afternoon there were frequent private conferences mearly an hour after their Democratic colleagues withdraw, and during the afternoon there were frequent private conferences with other Republican Senators and with Republican members of the House. As a result the opinion is gaining headway that there will be no report of a tariff bill at his session, but that the sub-committee will continue its inquiry during the recess. Should the Republicans adopt this course, a final adjournment of the session may be expected within three weeks. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.—The Re-ublican Senators will held a caucus during

The summons were issued through the City Attorney's office and served in the regular way. Selling liquor without a license was the charge against all of them. Noile prosequies were entered in the following cases, the defendants having paid their licenses: Courad Huebschman, Frank Pfuetze, August Rischert, Joseph Meyer, Eugene Hooker, Richard Helbig, John H. Stock-lin, William Nichaus, Walter J. Tremlett and Lambert J. Metzger. At the request of Attorney Bass all the other cases were continued until the list to enable the defendants to take out licenses. He said they all intended getting out licenses and that the continuances were taken in good faith. An evidence of this was the fact that so many of them had already taken out licenses, The others were engaged in having their petitions filled out. No objection was made by Mr. Butler to the requested continuance.

The city has aiready been tendered a fine pair of Virginia deer by Mr. Jerry Fruin which he desires to have put in Forest Park where they will have room enough to live in as nearly their natural state as pos-sible and be in addition quite an attractive feature of the park. The Park Commissioner trees out from the park and using the enclosed space for the deer, several more pairs of which have been promised to the city if the plan can be carried out. In addition to the deer a number of citizens have suggested that the buffalces at the Fair Grounds, now confined within a very limited space without grass or trees, be purchased and put in the park, where they can reas their offspring and keep in existence the rapidly dying out species. The oilians angusting the move are willing to subscribe liberally toward the purchasing of the buffalces and it is probable that the plan will be approved at an early day by the board.

"Did Shea tell the men they must board with you?"

"Never. I don't think he ever said a word to the men about where they should board. My house is near the stables and I know the men were satisfied here. He said: "It is not true that either Mr. Sullivan or I ever gave the men any orders as to their boarding-houses. The only thing we look out for in that regard is that the men do not live too far away from their work. The road has to be run on time, and each driver or conductor has so many minutes in which to eat. If he lived far away from the line he could not go and come within the time allowed."

"Why have all the men left Mrs. Borden's house and gone to Mrs. McDonaid's?"

"To better their condition, I suppose. I know nothing about it. I don't board with the men, and wouldn't do it. I don't associate with them at all."

"I have not boarded there since I was a conductor."

MAYOR FRANCIS INCENSED OVER ACTING-MAYOR ALLEN'S APPOINTMENT.

Says the Selection of Superintendent Tanfie is Evidence of President Allen's Unfriendliness and That He Is Now Considering the Situation—The Powers Given the Mayor by the Charter—A Special Election in the Eighth Ward—Political

Mayor Francis returned to the city this norning and repaired to his offices at the City morning and repaired to his offices at the City Hail at an early hour. He retired at once to the inner office, where he remained secluded, without interruption, until nearly noon. In the meantime the Secretary's spartment filled with officials, politicians and philanthropists, both male and female, while the outer office became consider with applicants for account. came crowded with applicants for executive clemency, guardians of incorrigible children, asking commitment to the House of asking commitment to the House of Refuge for their unruly wards, and persons desiring interviews with the municipal executive on various matters. bill with explanatory letters from the Recorder and the attorney of the Democratic City Com-mittee lay on the desk awaiting perusal. It and the attorney of the Democratic City Committee lay on the deak awaiting perusal. If action is reported to the Assembly this bill must be passed on to-day, as final adjournment of the session will take place this evening. Ed Butler and Tom Barrett, Clerk of the House of Delegates, were among the persons who patiently awaited an audience this morning and naturally fell to discussing the appointment of Secretary B. P. Taaffe as Superintendent of the Poor-house. Butler said: "Taaffe is a good man for the place. I show my/confidence in him by going on his bond, which will be sent to the Council to-night for approval. As far as the action of Acting Mayor Alien is concerned this thing only proves what I have argued to the Mayor himself. He's too—slow in making his minor appointments."

When the doors of the inner office were finally opened there was a rush for the audience-chamber and until after 1 o'clock the room was well filled. Many of the callers were friends of Central Committeeman Carroll, who was so unceremoniously "knocked out" by Acting Mayor Alien.

When Mayor Francis was asked concerning this action of the Acting Mayor has a complete surprise to me, and I cannot but regard it as an evidence of unfriendliness."

"The appointment was not made on any understanding was that nothing of that character would be done until I returned. No, sir, there was no necessity for making this appointment in such haste. The applications or inforements had not even been filed in this office. Before I went away I discussed the matter with the Health Commissioner. The institution was in charge of a clerk temporarily appointed. He has in fact had control of the institution were being administered effectively by the temporary appointee. I had no idea that Mr. Alien would take any such action."

"Do you propose to remove the appointee?"
"I am now considering the situation."
"Have you the power to replace Mr. Allen's appointee with one of your own selection?"
"You can judge from the city charter as well as I. I might say, however, that I regard the action as unfriendly."
The charter provision to which His Honor referred before being called to other considerations by the crowd awaiting an audience, specifies that the Mayor may remove an appointed officer for cause, but specifies that the vacancy so caused shall be filled by the Council. It also directs that when such a vacancy is caused by the action of the Council the Mayor shall nominate the successor.

This action will be taken to fill the vacancy in the Eighth Ward caused by the death of Delegate Chas. D. Keenan. Aside from the Canster provision there is no necessity for any haste in electing his successor, as the Assembly will adjourn to night until next November. Pat Brennan, who at one time represented the Fourth Ward in the House of Delegates, and who was beaten for the Democratio nomination by the deceased member, will, it is said, be the Democratic candidate in $the Eighth Ward. $2Mr$. My first work was enthe rule that from the result the cause could be produced. Following this theory I commenced on the electro-thermic battery, reasoning that if heat generated the electricity, by working backward heat could be made by electricity. As the weather grows warm, the sale

This proves that many women recognize the fact that PEARLINE makes washing and cleaning very much easier than when done with the ordinary means. Proves also that summer clothing, being of delicate texture and color, will not stand the rough usage necessary when washed with soap, and establishes the fact that PEARLINE, in doing away with the rubbing, lessens the wear and tear and fills a very important place, Delightful for bathing in fresh or salt

HOW THEY MADE CASES.

COUPLE OF POLICEMEN FURNISH SUN-DAY DIVERSION.

Patrolmen Dundon and Fenion Ge Out to Make a Råid en Saloon-Keepers Who Keep Open on Sundays and Meet in Deadly Combat in Cafferate's Saloon—A Description of the Mill—Reticent Brother

both of the Central Police District, engaged in a rough-and-tumble set-to Sunday afterrest. When the police set out to make cases against saloon-keepers for keeping open and selling liquor on Sunday they sent out a number of officers dressed in citizens' clothes to visit various places so they could give testimony in court against the saloon keepers when the cases came to trial. Among those sent out on this duty were Officers Fenion and Dundon. They were out after I o'clock in the afternoon and their condition indicated that they had made an enormous number of cases that day against saloon men. The two blue-coats got to discussing politics and with the ususual result. It was not long before the lie was exchanged and they came to blows. Dundon is a powerfully built man, over six feet tail, and while Fenlon is not so high, he is very stout and broad and considered quite handy with his fats. At it they went in real good old-fashioned style, and they soon had ean other "done up" to the queen'a taste. They were still at it hot and neavy when Officers Luke McDonald and Maker were attracted to the saloon and separated them. These officers did not care to inform on their brother patrolmen, and the matter has been kept very quiest. It leaked out this morning, however, and both officers will now be brought before the board. Capt. Joyce, who only learned of it at a late hour this morning, is said to have handed Chief Huebler charges against both Fenlon and Dundon. The matter will probably come up before the board this afternoon, but will in all probability be laid over for a week or two before it is tried, as the necessary witnesses cannot very well be gotten together by this afternoon.

Fenlon walks the beat which extends from Sixth street to Eleventh street, and from Cerre street to Chouteau avenue, while Dundon walks from Eighth to Eleventh streets, and from Market street to Clark avenue. Both are considered excellent officers and have splendid records, and both are popular with the men on the force. Fenlon is quite a practical joker, always has a funny yarn to spin about his fellow-officers, and, in short, is the wag of the department.

Nuptial Arrangements-A New Fa

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

It is fashionable now for husbands and wives have set the example, and the newly coupled folks in our fashionable world are following it. No secret is made of the custom. The nicest of our output of June brides will calmiy show you her own dainty boudoir, and then exhibit the bedroom of her husband. And the Duke of Mariberough and his bride, the beautiful Widow Hamersley, sailed away on their honeymoon voyage in two staterooms.

More than that, I have it from a positively trustworthy source that on the evening of the wedding, after the Clews dinnur at Delmonico's which was concluded at 10:45 p.m., the chaperone, Mrs. Cruger, and the Duchess were driven in a carriage unattended to the Hamersley mansion on Fifth avenue, and the Duke after passing some time with his friends in ordinary postprandial entertainment, sought his quarters at the Albemarle Hotel. This was construed as ducal politeness.

The idea is that the bride must not be intruded upon and that she must be left to invite her husband to call sconer or later, as the fancy sufts her. In one instance the wedded couple went right away on diverse tours to meet at the end of the week in some distant blace, the locality being kept a secret from their acquaintances.

PERHAPS it was a mistake to put BRICE at the head of the Democratic Campaign Committee, but it was not as great a mistake as putting HARRISON at the head of the Republican ticket.

NOTHING was said about St. Louis appointments in President CLEVELAND'S message to Congress yesterday. Some of them would be entirely out of place in a civil-service reform message.

THE President preaches civil service reform better than he practices it. Thepretically he is an unswerving reformer. Practically he is a habitual reform with occasional backslidings.

ALREADY complaints have been made of unfairness on the part of the Francis managers in Crawford County and in Cedar County. No such complaints should be allowed to arise in St. Louis.

HELP THE CHILDREN.

The New York WORLD has inaugurated a charity which commends itself not only as prolific of genuine good results to the most helpless class of human beings, but as sensible and practical. It maintains on its pay roll a physician whose sole duty is to visitall of the most crowded localities and wretched tenement districts in the metropolis and to give needed medical attention to the poor children found in them. He also reports the cases in which ald is most necessary. No one except those who have actually visited the packed quarters of the wretchedly poor classes can realize how the children suffer during the hot summer months. Their wan, pinched faces and emaciated forms tell pathetic tales of restless anguish in the putrid and stifling stmosphere of densely crowded rooms; of neglect, disease and insufficient nourishment. There are thousands of unwritten tragedies of the alleys and tenements buried in little graves every summer. The Fresh Air Mission gives many of the sufferers a breath of pure atmosphere and thus alleviates their sufferings: the Country Home and other kindred charities save many lives. But there are hundreds whose parents cannot or will not take advantage of the opportunities offered to help them and thus escape notice and enffer and die.

The World offers, by its practical work a timely suggestion to the charitable people of other cities. Here in St. Louis there is opportunity for splendid work in the way of systematized aid for poor children. Charity should go to those who cannot come to it. The cry of the little sufferers should be promptly heeded.

THE magnificent ovation which is to be tendered Mr. BLAINE on his return from Europe is significant at this time. The friends of Mr. BLAINE were in the majority at the Chicago Convention. When it was found that Mr. BLAINE could not be nominated, his friends gave the nomina tion to Gen. HARRISON, who is a particular favorite of Mr. BLAINE. The leading Blaine managers are close to Gen. HAR-RISON and are in frequent conference with him. It is given out that Mr. BLAINE will take the stump for the Republican ticket and that Mr. BLAINE will be Secretary of State in case of Gen. HARRISON otion. This means that Mr. BLAINE will be the power behind the throne. It neans that Blaine men and Blaine methods will be triumphant for four years in the Federal Government. The people of the United States rebuked Blaineism once. Will they vote for it in the person of Gen. HARRISON this time?

THE report that SAMUEL J. RANDALL will retire permanently from Congress must be read with regret by Democrats and Republicans slike. While Mr. RAN-DALL in his tariff views is opposed to the progressive wing of the Democratic party and has been its chief obstruction, there one particular in which political career is unqualifiedly comnendable. It has been marked by strict honesty. After twenty-six years of service Mr. RANDALL leaves Congress a poor man. He has been the his labors have been worth millions, and yet not a dollar of dishonest gain has stuck to his fingers. No one ever questioned the honesty of his convictions or hi actions. This is a record of which not only Mr. RANDALL but his party and his country has reason to be proud.

THE address of the Seventeenth Ward Glover Democratic Club states that the club "has been organized for the purpose 'primarily of seeing that all honest 'voters of the Democratic faith in that 'ward shall have a fair chance to express 'their preferences by their ballots at the 'primaries and other elections." This is a platform that all good Democrats should solidly stand on. It is the issue of the preliminary campaign in St. Louis.

This closed the session of the morning at Turner Hall. In the Hall of the Temple, or the Sisters of the Mysterious Ten, routine business only was transacted, such as hearing the reports of standing committees. There were about two hundred delegates in strendance at the convention of the Brothers and about one hundred and fifty at that of the Sisters. When the joint convention met at 3 o'clock in the afternoon the Grand Master read his annual report and an address of welcome to the brothers and the sisters was read by C. H. Tandy of this City. The convention will probably last until Friday. On Thursday a grand street parade will be given in conjunction with a picule at the Fair Grounds under the auspices of the order. It is expected that Among the well-known men in the order is E. W. Marshall, who is also Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the State of Kentucky. Speaking of the order and its prospects to-day he said:

At this meeting we propose to put through some legislation which is calculated to be of much benefit to the order. Heretofore we have spent too much money on displays and demonstrations and now we propose to put what money we have to spare to practical uses. We want to found homes for the helpless and orphans of our people and to do the negro some real, substantial good. Our society, as some people have arroneously supposed, is not at all a political one. We have some fine politicisms in the ranks, and all kinds of them. There are Republicans and Democrats and Prohibitionists, but politics is a question that is absolutely forbidden in our meetings.

The convention will hold two sessions daily, morning and evening, until adjournment.

"Well, you can't go on then; we don't allow anyhody to go on board with a baby, unless it's their own."

C. A. PALKER.

Three weeks ago Mr. Courtlandt Palmer, so-companied by his wife and family, went to Dunmore Lake, Salisbury, Vt., to pass the summer. Last Monday he grew slightly ill and supposed his kidneys were affected, until his meindy became so painful that his old family physician, Dr. abbe, was hastily summoned from the city. When he arrived he at once discovered that his patient was suffering from vocalized peritonitis, but saw no alarming symptoms till yesterday moraing, when the younger brother. Charles P., and his sister, Mir. Draper, of Doll's Ferry were startled by the above telegram. Mr. Charles Palmer immediately made all necessary arrangements and left on the New York Contrait & Hudson River Railway at 6:30 p. m. Just before leaving his office at No. 540 Broadway he received a second telegram containing the sad news that the sick man was not expected to live. While ne was on his journey news was received here of the death of Mr. Palmer.

Courtlandt Palmer was born in New York City March 25, 1843, and was a member of the old Stonlagton family of Palmers. His mother was a daughter of Richard Suydam, one of the old Knickerbockers. He was educated at Columbia Law School. He was brought up in the Reformed Church, but as a youth became a free thinker. He was one of the most conspicuous figures in what may be called the city's social literary life. During the past six or seven years the name of Courtlandt Palmer has become known everywhere from the wide reputation of the Nisescenth Century Club, which gives Courtlandt Palmer his chefer perished by Mr. Palmer to interest people of all conditions in the social, political, religious and moral problems of the time. A apsech made by Mr. Palmer last year at a Cooper Union meeting held to express sympathy with the condemned Chicago Anarchists sthen to be hanged, in which he claims he was entirely misquoted and misunderstood, being made to say that he deplored the impending execution and sympathized with the Anarchists, was a serious blow to the club and allenated many of his best friends. Judge Barrett resigned, and later in the winter Mr. Carnegie, who was also a Vice-President, in the course of a speech before the organization severely condemned Mr. Palmer for his Cooper Union speech. He was criticised severely for this by Mr. Palmer's friends and resigned from the club in anger, but atterwards reconsidered his resignation.

one occasion in 1858 I saw a gambler most sharply deat with for attempting unfair practices. He was playing with a planter from Helena, Ark., and had won considerable money. The planter became somewhat intoxicated, and believing that he was too befuddled to be able to see clearly what was going on, the gambler rang in a cold deck. His actions were observed by a young fellow who was standing near, who caught his wrist, exposed the trick and called the other bystanders into council. A regular courtmartial was held, the gambler was made to diagorge, and then it was decided to inflict a suitable punishment. A rope was procured, fastened around his waist and then he was dropped over the stern and trailed behind the boat for several hundred yards. I never saw a more wretched looking object than he was when he was hauled aboard. He was half drowned and nearly frozen, as it was late in the fall and the water very cold. He was put ashore at the next landing and warned never to show his face in the cable of a river boat, an injunction which, to the best of my belief, he attricty chard.

DANCING AND CARD-FLAYING.

"One of the favorite ways for a marchant or planter to spend a vacation." Capt. Harmon continued, "was to get on a boat and take a round trip. Often their families accompanied the tourists and sometimes large parties would be formed to go to the point of destination of the boat and return on it. There used to be a regular ball every night on these occasions, as we had always a number of musicians among the cabin waiters, the used to be a regular ball every night on these occasions, as we had always a number of musicians among the cabin waiters, the morning. But the card table was never neglected, and large sums were lost and won on these trips. But the planters when alone were the greatest gamblers I ever saw. When there were no laddes on board to distract their attention they only got up from the card-table to est, and often lost a whole year's crop on a single trip. Poker was the favorite game, although faro was sometimes played, and it was no unusual thing to see $5,000 or $4,000 on the table depending upon the result of a single hand. The professional gamblers who "an the river," as it was called, be longed to a class that has now almost totally disappeared. They were sorupulously neat and quiet in their dress, never noisy or flashy, scorned cheating and relied solely on their skill in the game and their command of ready was to bring them out winners. They generally hunted in couples, and from working in partnership derived the only advantage that could be called unfair. They carried large sums of money, frequently $6,000 or $6,000, and sometimes more. They used to buy season tickets on three of four boats, spend the entire traveling season on the river, and soon became known to nearly all the regular passengers, from whom they made no attempt to conceal their profession.

were thoroughly understood. I refer to the higher grade of lishographers. A few years ago, say five or six, we had as fine lithographs as could be found anywhere, and our work could compete with the best foreign productions. In fact America took the lead, and our lithographs were extensively sold in England and France and some even penetrated listo Germany, which country, before we entered the field, had a practical monopoly of the best work. But within a short time all this has been changed, our lithographers consider themselves lucky if they do not lose money, and to make anything under the present circumstances seems to be out of the question. The whole, or at least greater part, of the present depression in the trade is due to ignorant protection. Of course, the spread of the business has something to do with it. When the lithographic industry was in its infancy all kinds of stone work was done in the same establishment, the lower as well as the higher grades. Soon, however, the job printers began to see that they could employ their man when business was sisck in making cheap lithographs, and the consequence has been that nearly the entire trade in the three or four stone prints, which are used in circus posters, cheap advertisements, and such lines, has passed out of the hob printers. This was of something of a blow to the trade, as the cheap prints were quite profitable, but an impetus had been given to the practice of lithographic advertisement, especially in the higher grades, that enabled the lithographers to work at a good profit. But the tariff makers had laid a certain import on lithographs in general, without respect to the number of stones used, which is really the important point when cost is considered. It, therefore, came about that while the cheap lithographs were amply protected by the tariff the finer ones had practically no protection at all, as the duty formed an inconsiderable percentage of the cost.

"The Germans were quick to see this, and adonted measures which are fast driving our had practically no protection at all, as the duty formed an inconsiderable percentage of the cost.

"The Germans were quick to see this, and adopted measures which are fast driving our own men out of the field. They secured legislation from their own Government which prevented the job houses from cutting into their trade, and then went to work to make lithographs for the American market. Of course, the higher the price the less the percentage that the duty bore, and the Germans at once began printing from fourteen, fifteen, and even as high as eighteen or nineteen stones, all of which paid only the duty that Iwould have been collected if three or four had been used. They made them at a very small profit, or even at aloss, relying upon the trade in cheap lithographs, secured them by Government, to keep their houses running. Within a year the effect became apparent. The American houses doing the best work were obliged to close up, while those turning out second grade prints were reduced to the verge of bankruptcy. As soon as American competition was stopped the price of the best work was put up from 25 to 80 per cent and a large profit resulted, as to-day the finest tobacco lithographs, the most expensive in general use, are higher than they ever were before, and are nearly all made abroad. The same thing will follow with the lower grades, and unless something is done to stop it our entire trade in this line, amounting to more than a million dollars anually, will have passed into the hands of foreign firms. While a believer in free trade, I recognize the fact that in competition with a business protected by Government from outside encroachment our manufacturers are at a hopeless disadvantage without similar steps being taken, and for this reason think that the lithographers should be protected by a duty rising in proportion to the number of stones used. St. Louis has been a great sufferer from the present system, as some of the best lithographic work in the country was done here before the Teutonie invasion, and

AT A SNAKE'S MERCY.

o Snake Charmer Saves an Arm Omeer's Life,

From the San Francisco Chrontele.
There are innumerable tales told of hairbreadth escapes from death people have had omous snakes. Although snake stories are numerous I will inflict one of these narrow

The officers' mess of a regiment stationed at Toursheo.

It was during the wet monsoon at the time. We were sitting over our wine when a young Lieutenant called out: "I test something eresping up my right leg." I may mention that wide trousers of American drill are worn for the sake of occiness. An old officer present told the young fellow for God's sake not to str, but sit perfectly quiet, adding that it was no doubt a make, and that if he was to move his position he might be fatally bitten. The young fellow behaved with much narve. His face became e shade paler, but he took the advice given and remained quiet. He told us in a low voice that the creature, whatever it was, could not get past his knee, and that it had colled itself around his leg.

Not knowing how the affair might end, the Colonel had sent to town for a snake charmer. Two of these worthless soon made their appearance, one with a reed pipe somewhat resembling a flageolet, the other bearing a basket with fines pa to it. The basket, with one flap up, was set down behind the young officer's chair, the bearer squatting down beside it. The other officers made room for the charmers.

The other omeers made room for the charmers.

The musician commenced to play a low, soft melody on his pipe, monotonous but pleasing. In a few minutes the head of the reptile was seen to peep out of the bottom of the young officer's frousers, and after nodding it about a listic, keeping time with the cadence of the music, the snake slowly wriggled itself free from the young fellow's leg and glided toward the piper.

The music new became fast and wild, the music, the snake slowly wrighted showard the piper.

The music now became fast and wild, the snake keeping time with it, until with a rapid, sharp movement the man en the floor eaught the snake by the neck, thus forcing his jaws apart. Producing a steel instrument, the operator pulled the poison bag out with a dexterous jerk, then threw the snake into the basket and shut down the flap. On receiving a few rupees the charmers made a low obeissance and retired with their prize. The snake proved to be a cobra-di-capella or hooded snake about eighteen inches in length. After she reptile had withdrawn from about his person the young officer would have fainted from the reaction, but the "old hand" had a tumbler of brandy ready, which he made the youth swallow. This restorative soon put him torights, although I don't suppose he forgot the incident for some time.

Snakes have their use in houses, for they will chase and devour the rats and mice that infest the dwellings of men. Often in the ardor of pursuit they will fall from the rafters, and it is rather unpleasant should you happen to be underneath.

There are many varieties of the serpent tribe in the jungie, the boa constrictor, the NEW YORK, July 24.—"The Governor has not decided yet." Such was the dispatch received by A. Hummel yesterday, and the report that Gov. Hill had commuted the death sentence of Chiara Signarle to imprisonment for life had therefore no foundation. It was an emohad therefore no foundation. It was an emotional actress who started the rumor. She visited the condemned woman Sunday night, and fell on her knees as she said, 'Chiara, you are saved. The Governor has spared your iffe and has signed the commutation,'

"God in heaven be thanked,' repiled Chiara. The actress said that she had her information from Col. R. G. Ingersoll, who had given her the most positive assurance that the Governor had commuted the sentence. Chiara longed for her child yesterday. The little one, Rosina, aged 10, is an inmate of the Home of the Sisters of St. Joseph. The child has not been permitted to visit the Tombs for months.

The mother's wish will probably be gratified to-day.

William A. Howe said yesterday that had Chiara been guided solely by his advice she would never have been sentenced to death. It will be remembered that when the woman was first arraigned in General Sessions Mr. Howe interposed a plea of murder in the second degree, the punishment for which is imprisonment for life. It was only by hard work that he induced Recorder Smith to accept the plea. Then a morning paper printed sensational stories, stating that the woman was innocent and should be acquitted. Signarie and her friends brought such pressure to bear on Mr. Howe that he labored with the Recorder to undo what had been done, and the case went to trial. The result was a verdict of murder in the first degree and Chiara was sentenced to death. Now Chiara's friends are working day and night to have the death sentence commuted to imprisonment for life.

TERROR STRICKEN VILLAGERS.

nken Canalboatmen Over-Bunning Number of New York Villages.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 24.—The quiet villagers of Knowlesville, four miles east of here, have been terror-stricken for the past few days. The recent break in the Erie Canal at many of the little villages west of there, and whatever the attraction at Knowlesville, the largest number of boats ever seen in the villargest number of boats ever seen in the village, has been tied up there since Friday. The crews of each boat have been intoxicated every day and Friday kept the citizens awake nearly all night by their carousals. Saturday and Sunday nights the matter grew serious and drunken brawls and fights were numerous. The fough element raided many respectable houses and frightened women and children. A number of citizens armed themselves and kept watch for the drunken marauders. Last night a farmer was obliged to open his house to several of the canal men about midnight under threats of breaking down the doors it he did not comply with their demands. No hein has been called upon from neighboring villages, though numerous thefts have been reported. No arrests have been made. The total number of boatmen at the little hamlet is nearly four hundred.

Mr. Smith's Claim of 30,000 Ducks From His Grandmother's Estate.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., July 24.—Dudley B.

Smith, a wealthy business man of Cortland, has filed a claim against his deceased grandmother's estate for 80,702 ducks. It seems that when about 13 years old, in June, 1866, he let his grandmother, Mrs. Jeanette Smith, have three ducks' that he owned, under an alleged agreement that whenever demanded she should make return to him out of the natural increase of the flocks, at the rate of two for one every second year. Mrs. Smith retained the entire increase over twenty years, until she died in November, 1886.

Mrs. Smith retained the entire increase over twenty years, until she died in November, 1886. Now, in the settlement of her estate the grandson presents his claim for 30,703 ducks or falling to return the flowler for the equivalent in each or 30 cents a duck, amounting to the sum of $15,292. His father, who is the administrator of the estate, promptly allowed the claim. Other expectant heirs of the grandmother's property at once entered a vigorous protest against the administrator's action and appealed to Surrogate Easton of Tioga County, who has jurisdiction in the case, to reject the claim, and thus there has been begun a lively contest in the courts over the duck issue.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH. BIRMINGHAM, Conn., July 24 .- This town, which is noted for its odd characters, now brings to the front an old colored man, whose name is Jefferson, but who is mortally offended if it is not prefixed by "Dr." He demands that title because he is a herb doctor of some local reputation. Saturday night he went into a grocery store and bought a pint of molasses. As it was handed to him he put the jug to his lips and swallowed the whole pint as easily and with as much apparent pleasure as a thirsty man would drink no much milk. Seeing the look of surprise on the faces of the clerks he remarked: "Hah, I kin drink a gallion of that stuff." A quart was given him, with the understanding that he must drink it there and then. He took one long breath and swallowed the lot in just three minutes, pausing only long enough to take one breath.

Another serious charge is made against M. J. Kelly. It is that of sowing insubordination. It is aliested that when Manager Morrill refused Tate's request to be allowed a leave of absence for a day or two, Kelly advised Tate to go without leave, regardless of Morrill. This is a matter that should be investigated, and if proven, Mr. Kelly should be heavily disciplined. It would appear as if it is due to Mr. Kelly to come down from his elevated position, do his duty and play ball.—[Boston Herald rise, Boston

The Louisville Club yesterday wired the Cincinnati management offering the services of Ramsey for a certain consideration. Manager Schmeiz said that he knew Ramsey was just as good a pitcher now as when he made his great reputation with the Louisville Club.
The Cincinnati Club, he thought, could afford to spend a liberal sum to secure him. Ramsey, if he was inclined to behave himself, might make a valuable addition, but should he conduct himself here as he has done in Louisville he would do more harm than good.
The local pitchers are at this time doing exceptionally fine work, and should they continue to do as well there would be no great need, at least, of strenethening thia department.—[Cincinnati Commeroid.

For two years he has been covered with bad luck, and just now there is not visible the faintest glimpse of the silver lining of the dark cloud that hovers o'er his head. His career as a circus manager and proprietor—a carser from which he expected so much—has come to a brief and inglorious conclusion. There was no magic in his name to conjure crowds within its canvas tent, and a circus without patronage would speedly bankrupt the Bank of England. The telegraph has told us that John and his late partners have agreed to shake hands and separate, and, with a terseness that is Sullivanique, gave as a reason this fact: "The show did not draw." This ends John's dream of rivaling Barnam, surpassing Forepsugh, of throwing Balley in the shade and making plous old John Robinson in his old age turn green with envy.
